

POM 2008 Doctoral Student Consortium

Saturday, May 10, 10:15am–12:45pm, Athenia A and B

The program aims to provide an excellent opportunity for career development and networking with fellow doctoral students and prominent academicians. The theme of the Consortium is Transitioning from Doctoral Student to Professor. Four speakers with varied degrees of experience will give insights on what it means to be a professor at a university or college. Discussions will focus on what is involved in fulfilling the three basic responsibilities of a professor: teaching, research and service. Strategies and personal experiences will be provided by presenters. Opportunities for participants to develop their own strategies will also be a part of the program. The program will be chaired by Tim Lowe of the University of Iowa.
